The cross-disciplinary program in Classical Studies engages students with the civilizations of ancient Greece and Rome and their influence, both past and present, on western and world cultures. The Classical Studies minor and interdisciplinary-studies major include an integrated curriculum of courses in the cultures, literatures, history, languages, archaeology, and art of ancient Greece and Rome from prehistoric times to the reign of the Emperor Constantine. Current information about the Program may be found at: http://language.iastate.edu/academic-programs/classical-studies/

Courses in Classical Studies provide a classical context for students whose major fields of study or career interests include History, Anthropology, English, World Languages and Cultures, Philosophy, Women’s Studies, material culture, law, medicine, political science, the life sciences, and related fields.

Interdisciplinary Studies Major in Classical Studies

Students interested in pursuing an interdisciplinary studies major in Classical Studies should consult the Program Chair (see “Program Faculty” at http://language.iastate.edu/academic-programs/classical-studies/) or the Academic Adviser in the Department of World Languages and Cultures (http://language.iastate.edu/students/).
